"There is a story told of a very perturbed lady, who wanted an urgent consultation with the psychiatrist, Jung. He told her he could not see for at least two days. But the following day she saw him sitting back in his garden, apparently doing nothing. She was angry and at their next meeting told him so. But his reply was emphatic: in order to give effective time to her, he needed first to make sure he gave effective time to himself." [a lesson for us all to heed!]
